

Johnathan is out with friends at a bar but they are bummed out that they had to spend so much just to get some drinks.

Some random guy comes into the bar like a savior, and says he found the best app to find cheap drinks.

Everyone looks at him shocked and don't believe him.

He pulls up the app to show everyone proof that cheap drinks exist.

Everyone, including Johnathan are happy and immediately download the app

There is one person who is not happy; the bartender. He has lost his customers for drinks now.

Bob is getting drinks with his coworkers but realises the drinks they are getting are way too expensive.

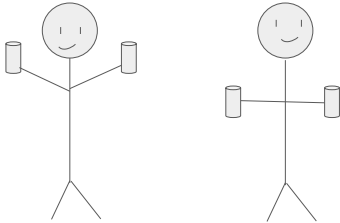

Bob opens the DrinkFinder app.

He enters in his location and within seconds 100s of results pop up for places to get drinks with the cheapest being at the top of the list.

Bob and his coworkers decide on a place to go based on the price and rating displayed on the app.

The place they ended up going becomes the group's new favorite spot to hang out on the weekends.

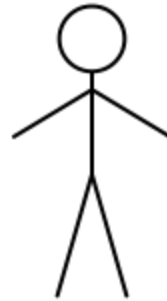

Bob can now have a good time with his friends without having to worry about putting a dent into his bank account.
